

OBSERVATIONS

FAITH'S MANY FACETS

I was very late once recent evening leaving the office. It had long been dark and the night air was bitter as I walked past the Chinese Consulate a few blocks from the offices of The Catholic New World.

Despite the hour, despite the chill, a lone man was sitting there, silently, on a thin mat of cardboard spread on the sidewalk across from the consulate. But this was no street-person seeking a handout. He was Asian and had assumed a traditional Eastern pose of prayer: legs crossed in a lotus position, eyes closed in contemplation, hands outstretched, palms upward in supplication. Deep in meditation, he ignored me as I walked past.

I don't know for certain why he was there; the austere and heavily-bricked consulate is a magnet for protests, many having to do with religion in one way or another.

This man might have been an adherent of the Falun Gong cult, protesting its oppression by the Chinese. Or, perhaps he was Tibetan, calling for freedom of faith for those who revere the Dalai Lama, long under the heavy Chinese thumb.

However, "why" in this case isn't nearly as important as "what." Whatever his cause, at the core of this prayerful man's actions was certainly his faith. And it was faith enough to brave the cold, the dark and the lack of companionship.

Religion has a foot in many facets of our lives. Perhaps most readers of this newspaper—overwhelmingly Catholic—might not appreciate the depth of the man's protest against a world power over religion. For the most part, we are free from such oppression. In some ways, that's a loss; fighting for faith can be a powerful, unifying event. Pro-life protestors, though, or those involved in other social justice causes may have experienced a sense of this.

Still, there is a lesson for us all here. No, not that we should all go out and protest; nor of course become followers of Falun Gong or the Dalai Lama. But rather that religion is more than a cultural label.

Which brings us to this edition—an extra!, if you will—of The Catholic New World. This special issue is dedicated to the annual financial report of the Archdiocese of Chicago, a report on how the institutional Church of Chicago has served as stewards of the gifts of Christ.

These gifts, as you'll read in the various reports, are more than financial. They are spiritual, and they are physical. In sum, it is why this edition is themed, "Sharing Christ's Gifts."

Faith seeks involvement of mind, body and soul. That is the essence of stewardship, the core of how we are to share Christ's gifts. That, too, is the thread of the message that loops through this annual report. Financial? Surely. But much more as well. The stories are those of commitment, of service, of celebration, of justice.

You'll read stories of archdiocesan finances here, of course: Stories of dollars and cents, revenue, expenses, costs and deficits. But the church is not a business; its balance sheet isn't simply profit and loss, but in evangelization, proclamation of the Good News and ministry in the name of God. By necessity, then, this "financial report" tells stories of the heart and soul as well as of the wallet.

It also includes—for this issue only—pages from our companion Spanish-language publication, Chicago Católico, recognizing the growing diversity of our archdiocese. That also is reflected in articles connecting other groups which are part of the whole that is the church, Polish Catholics and black Catholics.

For many Catholics, perhaps, "stewardship" means a call for digging more deeply into a pocket or purse. Yet faith seeks more of us than that. It means that we recognize that we have been gifted by God and we, in turn, share those gifts—money, service, effort and more—with others. The chilled but prayerful protestor outside the Chinese Consulate had a glimmer of the connection. This special edition—with its stories of faith and finances—seeks to make that connection even more firm.

Overall financial health still good Operating deficits compel reallocation of resources

The financial report for its fiscal year ending June 30, 2001, indicates that the Archdiocese of Chicago has once again increased its net assets, but the parishes and ministries operating out of the Pastoral Center continue to experience unacceptably high operating deficits. These financial figures, however, do not reflect short-term and long-term plans that were developed last year and implemented during the new fiscal year to reduce and even eliminate these operating deficits in the future.

"The mission of the archdiocese is to share the gifts Christ gives us," said Cardinal George. "For the archdiocese to continue its mission and funding for its apostolates, especially its service to the poor, we must constantly seek new ways to manage our revenues and expenses. Given the realities of the archdiocese's financial situation and the present economic climate in the nation, that task has become a greater challenge."

Archdiocesan leadership is presently working on short-term plans and long-term goals to balance the operating budget by 2003.

"Last year, we announced aggressive plans for cost reduction, revenue enhancement, stewardship and evangelization for the fiscal year beginning in July 2001," said Thomas Brennan, director of finance for the archdiocese. "Some early results of these efforts are seen in the drop in Pastoral Center spending in fiscal year 2001. More substantial improvement is expected in the current fiscal year.

"While our operating deficit in fiscal year 2001 is larger than the previous year," Brennan added, "the Archdiocese of Chicago is taking appropriate steps to put its financial house in order while maintaining its focus on its mission."

Deficit Trend Continues for Parishes

The 378 parishes, 261 elementary schools and the seven high schools that are supported by parishes and/or the archdiocese collectively increased their revenue over fiscal year 2000 by 8.7 percent to $545.3 million. However, expenses were also up by 10.2 percent to $568.6 million, resulting in an operating deficit of $23.3 million, compared to the deficit of $14.3 million in fiscal year 2000.

Nevertheless, the parishes increased their net assets over 2000 by 10.7 percent to $789.8 million. The improvement was primarily the result of the $42.6 million rise in contributions, which is a 16.9 percent increase over last year. Capital contributions to parishes were the largest part of this increase, rising from $34.6 million to $79.8 million, a 77 percent increase.

"The remarkable increase in contributions is a measure of our success with the 'Sharing Christ's Gifts' fundraising campaign and is a testament to the generosity of the parishioners in the parishes where this campaign has already taken place," Brennan noted.

He also pointed out that a large portion of these assets are fixed or restricted and are not readily available to cover operating deficits.

Operating results are due to the increasingly high number of deficit and grant parishes. While, according to church law, the excess financial resources of one parish of the archdiocese cannot be directly used to support the deficit operation of another, the archdiocese has revitalized a long-standing voluntary program known as "parish sharing." This program links parishes to one another across economic, racial, ethnic, and geographic lines to build relationships and community through the sharing of time, talent and treasure.

Fiscal Year 2001 Report

By Thomas Brennan

The financial report for fiscal year 2001 (July 1, 2000-June 30, 2001) contains many figures and much information on the financial condition of the parishes and the Pastoral Center of the Archdiocese of Chicago. While this report attempts to describe some important aspects of our church life, it is by its nature limited in its ability to describe the status of the church in Chicago. Our church exists to "announce, bear witness, make present, and spread the mystery of the communion of the Holy Trinity" (Catechism of the Catholic Church, No. 738).

As such, our report only scratches the untold millions of ways that people have participated in the life of the church this past year and the ways in which the church has helped transform our lives.

I want to start this report by acknowledging with heartfelt thanks the generosity and the commitment that our employees, parishioners and others demonstrate to make the work of our local church possible. As stewards of Jesus Christ, we are constantly challenged to return to God, through our generosity to others, the many blessings and graces that we receive. This financial report covers how we respond in part to the stewardship of treasure. We must also remember how our church is enriched many times over by the response of people to the giving of themselves through their stewardship of time and talent.

Building Our Future in a Changing World

Our local church is working hard to meet the challenge of serving an increasingly diverse and mobile population. The 2000 U.S. census documented many of the demographic changes that create challenges for our parishes and agencies. With the growth in recent immigrants, more of our parishes serve multi-ethnic, multi-language groups. With shifts in population, some of our parishes have had to adapt and expand their programs and facility space. At the same time other parishes are seeing a decline in the number of people they serve. With changes in education requirements, our schools are called on to invest more in technology and other curriculum-enriching programs. With changes in people's lifestyles and the demands of the workplace, we are called to serve people in new ways and to communicate with them using multiple mediums. With a growing dispersion of household incomes, we see a growing mismatch between where resources are and where needs are. All of these changes call us to respond with openness to the needs of others and a willingness to adapt to changing circumstances so we can build a strong and vibrant church.

In order to deal with these challenges, the Archdiocese of Chicago has embarked upon an unprecedented campaign, "Sharing Christ's Gifts," as a way of mobilizing people and their resources. This campaign asks us to embrace a life of stewardship. It asks us to reflect on what we have been given and how we spend what we have—our time, talent and treasure. By inviting all Catholics to practice stewardship, we hope to further enliven our parishes.

Our financial results for FY2001 are largely shaped by the early success of this campaign. We show a steady increase in the net assets of the parishes and the Pastoral Center. The net assets of our 378 parishes grew by more than $76 million or 10.7 percent, from $713.5 million to $789.8 million. At the same time the net assets of the Pastoral Center grew by just over $4 million or 2.6 percent, from $169.8 million to $174.3 million. Parishes saw their results driven by a $42.6 million, 16.9 percent increase in contributions, with the bulk of this increase attributable to the Sharing Christ's Gifts campaign.

As you examine the results for parishes and the Pastoral Center you will see that we continue to incur operating deficits, but the strength of the Sharing Christ's Gifts campaign has led to overall surpluses and an ability to begin tackling some of the large infrastructure costs associated with our many churches, schools, rectories, convents, halls and other facilities.

Parish Results

Parish net assets grew by $76.3 million to $789.8 million. Contributions increased by $42.6 million or 16.9 percent with capital contributions increasing 77 percent or $34.6 million to $79.8 million. Operating contributions (e.g. Sundays, holydays, bequests and other fundraising) increased 3.8 percent to $214.9 million. This growth is truly encouraging especially in light of the slowing economy and recession we are experiencing. While parish income, particularly capital contributions, increased rapidly, we also saw a large increase in parish operating expenses. Higher spending on parish personnel (+$5.3 million), property repairs (+$11.9 million), utilities (+$9.9 million) and subsidies to schools ($+3.5 million) led to a $9 million increase in the parish operating deficit to a level of $23.3 million from a deficit of $14.3 million in fiscal year 2000. Other parish developments include:

- Parish assets reached $928 million in 2001. Of these, more than 70 percent or $665 million represent the value of land, buildings and equipment. Since parish buildings house parish activities we also realize that these buildings represent an enormous annual commitment to operate and to maintain.
- The success of the Sharing Christ's Gifts campaign allowed parishes to spend $79.1 million in fiscal year 2001 on capital additions and major repairs to their facilities (e.g. roofs, tuckpointing, painting, new boilers). Over the past five years, parishes have now invested a little more than $300 million in capital improvements and additions. This is a tremendous testimony to the commitment and generosity of parishioners to the future of their parishes.
- As of June 30, 2001, parishes had $36.5 million in long-term investments (up from $30.6 million in June 2000) in the archdiocesan pooled investment fund. These investments represent endowment funds created by 32 parishes and 68 schools.
- Schools had revenue of $239.8 million and expenses of $289.4 million during fiscal year 2001, resulting in a required subsidy of $49.6 million. This subsidy is up from $46.1 million in fiscal year 2000. This growing subsidy points to one of the biggest challenges facing the archdiocese. Namely, how do we keep our schools broadly available to children of the archdiocese when the cost of paying professional staff, providing a rich curriculum and maintaining adequate facilities continues to increase at more than twice the rate of inflation.

Longer term, we strongly believe that public policy will need to change to recognize and fund a parent's right to choose to send their child to a parochial school. All schools educate members of the public, yet only children attending government-owned schools receive meaningful public funds. We strongly support changes (e.g. expanded tax credits and vouchers) that would allow school funding to follow the student based on parental choice rather than to be limited to supporting the government-run secular system. Now, more than ever, it is apparent that strong moral teaching is an essential part of a successful education program. Just as government programs channel tax revenue to health care, childcare, Social Security and other program areas irrespective of a person's religious affiliation or whether a person chooses to spend funds so received in a religiously affiliated institution, we think that elementary and secondary education funding systems should be unshackled.

➤ Most parishes face very challenging financial situations. In fiscal year 2001, three out of every 10 parishes ran an operating surplus or broke even; the other 70 percent of parishes ran a deficit (i.e. they spent some savings) or required grant support from the Pastoral Center to operate.

➤ Parishes received $22.2 million in direct grants from the archdiocesan Pastoral Center. Additionally, parishes were unable to pay $4.7 million in assessments to the Pastoral Center for things like property insurance and employee benefits. As a result, the Pastoral Center assumed these obligations for the parishes for a total of $26.8 million in parish grant support. Parish grants represent a two-edged sword. On the one hand, grants are a tremendous witness to the archdiocese's commitment to maintaining a very broad parish presence. On the other hand, the current level of grants is not financially sustainable and will require reductions in the scope of our operations. Since 1970 the Archdiocese of Chicago has provided more than $372 million in grants to parishes.

Pastoral Center Results

Pastoral Center net assets grew by $4.5 million to $174.3 million. The Pastoral Center includes the office of the archbishop and many of those who work to provide service and support across the archdiocese including the seminaries and the many departments and agencies listed in the table accompanying this financial report. The Pastoral Center also provides grant support to parishes and schools lacking sufficient local resources.

In fiscal year 2001, the Pastoral Center's operating deficit grew to $15.1 million from a deficit of $10.2 million in fiscal year 2000.

The primary reason for the increased operating deficit was an increase in parish related spending by the Pastoral Center. Grants made from Pastoral Center operating revenue totaled $21.5 million in fiscal 2001, an increase of $2.4 million from fiscal year

Thomas Brennan

2000. (Note: some additional parish grants are funded from non-operating revenue sources.) The amount spent on parish grants represents more than the entire operating deficit of the Pastoral Center. Other key aspects of the Pastoral Center financial performance include:

➤ The insurance fund that the archdiocese runs for its parishes and agencies saw results deteriorate in fiscal 2001. The fund's expenses grew faster than revenue because of an increase in property claims (many related to winter storm damage) and sharply increasing costs for employee medical insurance. Insurance expenses grew by $4.7 million more than insurance program revenue.

➤ Contributions and bequests grew by $2.8 million to a total of $10.1 million.

The Pastoral Center maintained $58.3 million in general investments as of June 30, 2001 (as compared to $58.8 million the prior year). The income from these investments is a major source of support for Pastoral Center programs. The Pastoral Center was able to maintain its level of investments in spite of its operating deficit because of positive investment returns and the proceeds it received from the sale of a large piece of unimproved property in unincorporated Cook County.

➤ The Pastoral Center's overall increase in net assets is due in large part to the $9.9 million net gain on the sale of property and $16.6 million in revenue in the Development fund. As parishes participate in the archdiocesan Sharing Christ's Gifts campaign, they are required to share 20 percent of annual income with the rest of the archdiocese. This money is being collected by the Pastoral Center in the development fund and used for such projects as the construction of a retirement home for archdiocesan priests (dedicated in May 2001), capital repairs at Mundelein Seminary, expenses of the campaign and the needs of poorer parishes.

➤ Net spending by the Pastoral Center for the agencies that provide ministerial and pastoral services declined by 1.7 percent to $26.8 million.

Overall, the Pastoral Center will continue to work with the parishes and schools of the archdiocese to bring parish operating revenue and expenses more closely into balance. In this effort we will continue to focus as much on identifying sustainable sources of revenue as in finding ways to reduce expenses. In the meantime, we thank you for your support and pledge to continue working to serve the people of the Archdiocese of Chicago.

We are all stewards of Christ's gifts

Dear Reader,

Enclosed is the annual report of Archdiocesan finances for the year ending June 2001. This report contains explanations by our director of finance, Mr. Thomas Brennan, as well as letters from our Episcopal Vicars regarding the state of ministry in several areas of the Archdiocese. I am extremely proud of the work that sustains our parishes, schools and ministries in the Archdiocese. The report identifies the revenues and expenses involved in providing these services and ministries.

There is always more work to be done, however. As the report indicates, the assets of the archdiocese have increased significantly, but operating deficits still remain unacceptably high. We are working to match expenses more closely with revenues.

I want to express my gratitude to all involved in stewarding the finances of the archdiocese. In particular, I would like to thank our pastors and priests and their business managers, as well as Tom Brennan and members of the Archdiocesan Finance Office; the Finance Committee of the Archdiocese and other advisors and consultants to me, including the Archdiocesan College of Consultors and members of my Administrative Council. I urge all, especially leaders within our parishes and schools, to see themselves as stewards of Christ's gifts.

Finally, I would like to express my have given in extraordinary ways to the works of this Archdiocese prompts my great gratitude.

You may have additional questions after reading this report. Our employees, staff and volunteers will be happy to answer any questions about the details of this financial picture of our Archdiocese. God bless you.

Sincerely yours in Christ, thanks to our many benefactors. Besides the generosity of parishioners throughout the Archdiocese, expressed especially through the "Sharing Christ's Gifts" campaign, the kindness of benefactors who

Realigning church resources for a changing archdiocese

The maps spread over the table in Jean Welter's office show a clear pattern, reflecting more than 30 years of Catholics moving to the outlying areas of the archdiocese. Where most of these Catholics once lived stand many huge, old churches, serving smaller Catholic populations.

Welter, who is the archdiocesan director of research and planning, noted that there are many churches in areas of the city where the population is less than 20 percent Catholic. At the same time, suburban churches are serving larger Catholic populations over a broader geographic area.

"We need to look institutionally at how we can best carry out our mission," Welter said. "We need to reallocate our resources for our changing demographics."

The Archdiocesan Finance Council created a committee to look at ways to realign resources in 2000. That committee recommended that the episcopal vicars utilize accepted criteria for looking at parishes and determining more efficient ways to better serve the people, including better distribution of active priests. Criteria include church attendance, number of registered families, building capacity, location and the cost of building maintenance and repair.

"October counts"—the archdiocese's annual census of how many people are actually in the pews—show Lake County's population of active Catholics rising steadily over the past 10 years, although the approximately 55,000 church-going Catholics there are still less than the roughly 250,000 each in Chicago and suburban Cook County. In the same 10 years, the numbers in suburban Cook County have overtaken those in Chicago.

Ideally, parishes should have between 400 and 3,000 registered families, Welter said. Some parishes have less, others—particularly in rapidly growing suburban areas—have too many. The archdiocese planning process that is now under way, which is led by the vicars, will take several years to evaluate the viability of every parish.

"It's an ongoing process that will enable us to continually monitor how we are using our resources to best serve all areas of the archdiocese," Welter explained. "The process will always involve church leadership and local parishioners, for it is important to hear their voice and consult with them."

Welter pointed out that she does not consider it her mandate to make decisions about individual parishes. Rather, she said, her department is a resource to help Cardinal George and the vicars make the informed decisions that are required to meet the archdiocese's institutional and structural challenges.

"The archdiocese experienced significant closings and consolidations of parishes in the early '90s," she recalled. "From that, archdiocesan leaders learned of the emotional response such decisions evoke, even from former parishioners of the parishes affected."

"The challenges we are facing are not ones of faith; they are institutional and structural challenges," Welter emphasized. "Whether it involves consolidation of parishes or building new ones, pastoral planning means working toward the ultimate goal of maintaining viable parishes that we can sustain."

Report

a deficit increased by 14 to 201 in 2001. Deficit parishes fund operations deficits out of accumulated savings. The number of grant parishes and schools increased from 76 in 2000 to 91 this year. Grant parishes rely on the archdiocese for financial support. Total grant support provided to parishes and schools by the Pastoral Center for fiscal year 2001 exceeded $22 million.

"The number of grants given to parishes provides evidence of the archdiocese's commitment to maintain a parish presence in every community," Brennan said. "Since 1970, the Archdiocese of Chicago has provided more than $372 million in grants, but this level of expenditure cannot be sustained, causing us to reexamine the way we maintain our presence in some areas."

One factor contributing to the deficit is the archdiocese's continuing commitment to Catholic education. The overall cost of operating Catholic schools increased by 5.6 percent to $289.4 million. On average, 83 percent of these costs are paid by the schools through tuition, fees and fundraising ($239.8 million). The other 17 percent, or $50 million, is subsidized by parishes or through grants from the Pastoral Center.

"For the past three years, the leaders of the archdiocese have been working to secure the financial future of Catholic education in Cook and Lake counties," said Cardinal George. "Tax credit legislation that aids parents who choose to send their children to non-government schools has helped, as has a comprehensive marketing program. Although we have had some successes, there are many interests opposed to parents of Catholic school children receiving any form of government assistance, even though these parents pay taxes and our schools save taxpayers over $800 million a year."

Pastoral Center Shows Deficit

The archdiocese's Pastoral Center provides a broad range of services and support to the parishes and schools and the Catholic population of Cook and Lake counties they serve. For the year ending June 30, 2001, the total program revenue of the Pastoral Center was $51.2 million while expenses were $65.3 million, resulting in a deficit from operations of $15.1 million compared to a deficit of $10.2 million in fiscal year 2000. The primary reason for the larger operating deficit was an increase in parish-related spending by the Pastoral Center. Grants from the Pastoral Center to the parishes were $22.2 million, amounting to more than the entire operating deficit of the Pastoral Center.

Archdiocesan investments again showed gains of $4 million, down from $11 million last year. After factoring in increases in other non-operating accounts, such as sale of property, net assets for the Pastoral Center still increased $4.5 million.

"The investment gains have been a significant boost to the long-term financial health of the archdiocese," Brennan pointed out. "Although our increase was not as great as the previous year, our prudent investment policies have enabled us to gain a return that is higher than the market benchmark."

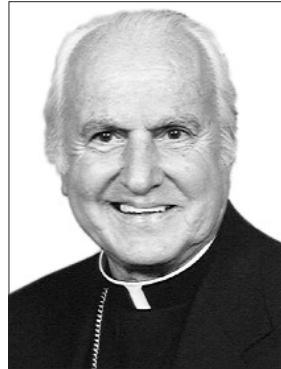

The Archdiocese of Chicago serves approximately 2.3 million baptized Catholics who live in Cook and Lake counties in northeastern Illinois. The archdiocese employs approximately 16,460 people in its parishes, schools, charities, seminaries, cemeteries and administrative offices.

Serving the needs of Polish Catholics in the archdiocese

The Archdiocese of Chicago serves many ethnic Catholics in both Cook and Lake counties, and one of the largest ethnic groups is those of Polish descent.

With more than one million Polish people in residence, the Chicago metropolitan area is believed to have the largest urban Polish population outside the city of Warsaw, Poland. Additionally, 90-95 percent of the Poles who live in Chicago are thought to be baptized Catholics.

The archdiocese has continued to commit more resources toward better meeting the religious needs of a community that is one of the fastest growing ethnic groups in the nation, increasing 180 percent in the last needs of Polish Catholics is encouraging vocations to the priesthood. The Bishop Abramowicz House for Polish Seminarians at Holy Innocents Parish on Chicago's Near Northwest Side is helping to prepare Polish seminarians to become diocesan priests. It is named after the late Bishop Alfred Abramowicz, an auxiliary bishop of Chicago who was an internationally known advocate for justice in Poland and a close confidant of His Holiness, Pope John Paul II.

The archdiocese also offers catechetical services in Polish, which has improved religious education significantly for the Polish-speaking Catholics of Cook and Lake counties. In addition, this past year has seen a Polish-language version of the official Web site of the archdiocese, which is available to anyone on the Internet through www.archdiocese-chgo.org

Polish Catholics are part of the wonderful ethnic mosaic that makes up the Archdiocese of Chicago. They are part of a culturally diverse group of Catholics served by the archdiocese, a diversity that is very likely unequaled anywhere else in the world.

*Bishop Thad Jakubowski

decade. Parishes in the archdiocese already have been doing their part to meet the special needs of Polish Catholics as 54 parishes offer Polish-language Masses. For quite some time, the Archdiocese of Chicago also has had a director of European Catholic ministry, Christine Zambrzycki Flaherty, who has been appointed to direct the archdiocesan effort to identify the pastoral needs and coordinate pastoral efforts for Polish and other European Catholics.

Another major challenge of meeting the

The mission of the church in the black community

Black Catholics in Chicago date back to the founding of the Chicago area when Jean Baptiste DuSable was the first settler to come to the southern shore of Lake Michigan. Yes, the founding father of Chicago was Catholic, and he was black. Building on this great tradition, the Archdiocese of Chicago has taken great strides in the past several years to improve the prospects for self determination among the parishes and schools of the inner city.

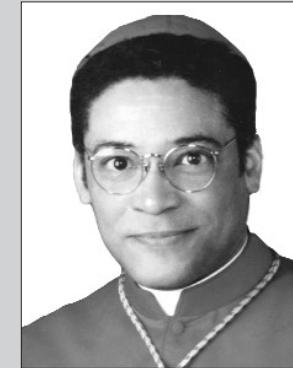

The impetus for this was the Black Catholic Convocation, which took place near the end of the Millennium year in November 2000. Parish discussion groups and assemblies were held over the course of the year preceding the convocation. Clergy and parishioners surfaced an agenda of issues important to black Catholics and the communities they serve.

One year later the Black Convocation Implementation Committee has stated in its mission statement that it exists to assist parishes and schools in the black community of the Archdiocese of Chicago to develop strategies and tactics for transformational change based on the recommendations of the Black Catholic Convocation concerning evangelization, vocations, stewardship, parishes and schools. Task forces have been created for each of these five areas. The committee also envisions that it is serving as an effective partner with the community and the wider Catholic Church to provide assistance and resources to our parishes and schools as they become more stable and vibrant centers of faith and education.

The Task Forces on Parishes and Schools are working with struggling parishes and have assisted with recommendations with a new configuration of schools in the inner city. These task forces assist the archdiocese with determining a more efficient use of resources and to minimize the necessity for subsidies and grants that assist the most needy parishes and schools. Innovative approaches that have been developed will offer the faithful of the archdiocese a stirring message that black Catholics are fine-tuning their presence in the inner city.

While the implementation committee is fully aware of the limited resources available to the archdiocese, it is committed to providing resources and assistance to black Catholic parishes and schools as they implement appropriate changes and programs related to the Black Catholic Convocation. The ultimate goal is to assist the pastors, vicars and Cardinal George in their efforts to recognize, celebrate, integrate and support the gifts of the black Catholic community throughout the Catholic Church in the Archdiocese of Chicago.

Evangelization—the essential mission

"Evangelization is not another program," says Franciscan Father Joseph Kruszynski, director of the Archdiocese of Chicago's Office for Evangelization. "It is a priority of the archdiocese and the essential mission of the church. It involves an ongoing conversion and deepening our personal spiritual life, as well as the spiritual life of the parish."

This "essential mission" is what led to the development of a new plan by the Office for Evangelization. "Spreading the Holy Fire: A Plan for Catholics Evangelizing in the Archdiocese of Chicago" is designed to help Catholics develop a deeper love for Christ. The plan outlines action steps at the personal, parish and archdiocesan levels.

"For the church, evangelizing means bringing the Good News into all the strata of humanity, and through its influence transforming humanity from within and making it new." (Pope Paul VI, Evangelii Nuntiandi, 18). To bring about this conversion to Christ in and through the church, the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops in 1992 approved "Go and Make Disciples, a National Plan and Strategy for Catholic Evangelization in the United States." The first officially organized evangelization effort, it outlines three goals: conversion within the individual, conversion of the church community and the conversion of society.

Over the past several years, nearly 200 parishes in the Archdiocese of Chicago have participated in, or are currently completing, Disciples in Mission, a three-year process developed by the Paulists to integrate those goals into parish life. Sunday liturgies, small faith-sharing groups, catechesis, and family events are some of the activities outlined in Disciples in Mission. The new plan, "Spreading the Holy Fire," is currently being tested in six pilot parishes.

Affordable housing for all a goal for Catholics to support

Sharing the Gifts of Christ has prompted the leadership of the Archdiocese of Chicago to become strong advocates for affordable housing for all of God's children.

To concretely demonstrate this advocacy, the archdiocese obtained a $275,000 grant from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation to establish a housing division that helps promote fair and affordable housing for low-income families throughout the Chicago metropolitan area.

The grant funds a new division that coordinates nine different housing programs designed to increase the number of affordable housing units and mobilize the efforts of local congregations to connect with families in need of affordable housing. Jonathan Njus is the coordinator of the division, which is part of the archdiocese's Office for Peace and Justice.

Both the MacArthur Foundation and Cardinal George have been leaders in trying to address the housing crisis in metropolitan Chicago. MacArthur is assisting faith-based efforts like those of the Catholic Church in Chicago to connect families in congregations to be mentors and resources to the families affected by the lack of affordable housing in many parts of the Chicago Metropolitan area.

"Helping to find affordable housing for people in need is part of the church's mission," says Cardinal George. "By coordinating the efforts of all our agencies involved in housing, the archdiocese will be more effective. We will assist parishes that want to mentor families who are seeking fair and affordable housing."

As the advocacy arm of the archdiocese's housing initiatives, the housing division of the Office for Peace and Justice informs and engages Catholics in securing people's right to affordable shelter. Through personal contact with pastors and parish groups, in conjunction with outside agencies and legislative organizations, and with archdiocesan agencies, this division furthers housing education, advocacy and outreach at the parish and deanery levels. The mandate to establish inclusive policies and welcoming relationships in the housing arena has most recently been advanced through the parish-based Advent program of prayer and study, "No Room in the Inn/No Room in Chicago."

Fair housing advocacy is just one of the many efforts undertaken by the Office for Peace and Justice. Fulfilling its mission as educator and advocate, the office also has helped elementary and secondary teachers integrate justice into their curricula, brought the program "Moving Faith Out the Church Door," to parishes, protected the rights of low-income workers with grants from the Raskob and Our Sunday Visitor Foundations, and increased revenue from the Catholic Campaign for Human Development and Catholic Relief Services' Operation Rice Bowl collections by $249,000.

The work for change and empowerment continues with emphasis in the coming year on establishing legislative networks, strengthening external communications, expanding the archdiocese's influence in housing issues and reaching out to ethnic, youth and young adult groups.

Parish enthusiasm fires up Millennium Campaign

The year 2001 was a milestone year for the Department of Stewardship and Development as the Millennium Campaign, Sharing Christ's Gifts, reached the $110 million threshold.

Thus far, 147 parishes have participated in this diocesan-wide capital stewardship effort intended to promote the theology and practice of stewardship and to put our parishes and schools on a firm financial foundation. By the end of 2002, all parishes will have participated in the campaign to meet—and likely surpass—the financial goal of $200 million.

"In all this," Cardinal George has said, "the common purpose is personal conversion to Christ and consequent sharing of his gifts as widely and generously as possible."

Beneficiaries of the campaign include Mundelein Seminary, the Bishop Timothy Lyne Residence for Retired Priests and economically depressed parishes. Yet, Sharing Christ's Gifts is unique because it is an archdiocesan campaign in which at least 80 percent of what is raised by a parish is "shared" with that parish. In fact, parishes located in every neighborhood and suburb are raising double—and in some cases, triple—their target goals.

St. Matthias, an ethnically and economically diverse parish in Chicago's Lincoln Square neighborhood, has raised $551,000 in its own Sharing Christ's Gifts campaign. Father Terry Keehan, pastor, felt the campaign worked so well there because "amidst very difficult economic times, Catholics seem now to be open to learning about the financial demands of parish life—and feel it is important to be part of the solution." Keehan felt that the effective "educational process" that is part of the campaign helped parishioners identify the five separate capital needs at the parish that they are helping to fund.

Thanks to the enthusiasm of the priests and parish groups which have led and supported the campaign at the local level, Sharing Christ's Gifts is distinctive in that it reminds Catholics of their own giftedness," said Ray Coughlin, Stewardship and Development director. "The wonderful results we're seeing at parishes throughout Cook and Lake counties make it clear that local Catholics understand they have been blessed and want to share that with others and with their own parish communities."

The Department of Stewardship and Development also oversees the Annual Catholic Appeal, planned giving initiatives, advancement services for schools, research grants, parish services and donor relations.

Financial aid in Catholic schools

Striving to keep Catholic school education an affordable choice for families seeking a faith-based, academically excellent education continues to be a monumental challenge for Catholic schools of the Archdiocese of Chicago.

Schools look to various sources to keep tuition costs down. Elementary schools traditionally have used parish subsidies, archdiocesan subsidies, assistance from sharing parishes, not to mention many parent- and volunteer-based fund-raising activities to keep costs down.

An increasing number of elementary schools are looking to establish endowments so that tuition assistance can be provided on an ongoing basis. Currently, some 60 schools have such endowments. The Office of Catholic Schools has been encouraging the establishment of a Tuition Covenant at each school in order that needs-based assistance can be provided at the same time that cost-based tuition is charged.

Most of the Catholic secondary schools have established endowments from which to provide scholarships and financial aid. Active development programs at these schools serve to build the endowment as well as provide ongoing operational support.

In some situations in both the elementary and secondary schools, students and their families may seek outside sources of support like the Big Shoulders Foundation, the Children's Scholarship Fund and the Daniel Murphy Scholarship Fund to help make Catholic school education affordable.

In spite of rising costs, Catholic schools continue to provide education at a lower average cost than the Chicago elementary and secondary public schools. During this past year, the average cost for educating an archdiocesan elementary school student was $2,679, compared with the $7,826 average cost of educating one public elementary school student. At the secondary school level, the average cost in the Catholic secondary schools was $5,385 per student compared with the $7,324 cost of public secondary education per student.

Catholic talk radio is all over the archdiocese

Spreading the word of Christ over the Chicago airwaves increased dramatically in 2001. The Archdiocese of Chicago enhanced the Chicago area radio presence it first established in 2000. The following quality, locally-produced Catholic radio shows can now be heard seven days a week in and around the Archdiocese of Chicago:

Sundays, 5:15-5:30 a.m. on WGN, AM 720 (rebroadcast at 4:45 p.m. on WYLL, AM 1160): "The Word on Fire" pastoral reflection offered by Father Robert Barron, a professor of systematic theology at the University of St. Mary of the Lake/Mundelein Seminary, is made possible through the generosity of parishioners at Sacred Heart Parish in Winnetka.

Most of the initial funding for all other archdiocesan radio programs has been provided by Catholic Cemeteries of the Archdiocese of Chicago. Program sponsorship and commercial ad time packages for interested corporations or institutions are available to be purchased.

Monday-Friday, 9-9:30 p.m. on WYLL, AM 1160:

Mondays and most Fridays: "Catholic Community of Faith" is a lively half-hour discussion of faith and Catholic life in our archdiocese and in the universal church. The show is hosted by Father Gregory Sakowicz, pastor of St. Mary of the Woods Parish in Chicago, and Tom Sheridan, editor of The Catholic New World.

Tuesdays: Catholic Community of Faith presents "God's Praises Tell," with host Julius Frazier, a member of St. Philip Neri Parish and theology teacher at Chicago's Notre Dame High School for Girls. Frazier and guests explore Catholicism from the viewpoint of a dynamic and faith-filled African American community (this show also previously aired on AM 820);

Wednesdays: Catholic Community of Faith presents "Catholic Schools Today," with host Mike Krivich. Krivich explores the Catholic schools' mission of Christ-centered, faith-based education, academic excellence and technology with the principals, teachers and students of the largest non-public school system in the nation;

Thursdays: Catholic Community of Faith presents "Voice of Charities" with host Father Michael Boland, administrator of Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of Chicago. Boland shares news about the breadth of care and services Catholic Charities provides seven days a week to our community's most vulnerable citizens.

First Fridays: Catholic Community of Faith presents "Speaking of Theology" with Father Thomas A. Baima, provost of the University of St. Mary of the Lake/Mundelein Seminary. "Speaking of Theology" uses the expertise of the university faculty to help Christians to turn their minds, as well as their hearts, to Christ.

Saturdays, 8:30-9:30 a.m. on WSBG, AM-1240 and WCFJ, AM-1470: Una Comunidad Católica de Fe, hosted by archdiocesan directors Father Ezequiel Sanchez of the Office for Hispanic Catholics and Alejandro Castillo of Hispanic Communications, discusses the Catholic faith from a Hispanic perspective.

Getting to the heart of faith

Religious education does not only take place in archdiocesan elementary and secondary schools. Adult Catholics throughout the in the Archdiocese of Chicago headed back to the classroom this fall, seeking to deepen their knowledge of the central tenets of the Catholic faith, to learn more about Sacred Scripture—and, for some, to train for eventual part or full-time ministry in the church:

- Essential Catholicism (NEW): Over 11 Saturdays between September and May, 60 adults are taking part in this new adult formation series which focuses on the Mass and the sacramental life of the church, salvation history through the Scriptures, morality, and prayer. The series is offered at St. George Parish in Tinley Park, and at Holy Family Parish in Inverness. Contact: Michael Cameron, Archdiocesan Office for Catechesis, 312/243-3700.

- "Together in God's Service" (NEW): Marking a new stage in archdiocesan support of lay ecclesial ministry, this new program has enrolled 19 students aged 23-58 who are supported financially and through a formation process in their graduate theology work at Catholic Theological Union, and at Dominican, Loyola and St. Xavier Universities. Participants have praised the program for the way in which it links them to the archdiocese. Upon completion of the program, students will be commissioned to ministry by Cardinal George as professional pastoral associates or as directors of religious education. Contact: Graziano Marcheschi, director, Archdiocesan Lay Ministry Formation Program, 847/837-4550.

River Forest and, now, at St. Xavier University in Chicago. Contact: Michael Cameron, Archdiocesan Office for Catechesis, 312/243-3700.

- Liturgical Institute (NEW): With an inaugural class of nine students, the Liturgical Institute is the newest academic unit of the University of St. Mary of the Lake/Mundelein Seminary, founded in 2000 by Cardinal George to promote the theology and practice of the church's liturgical life. The institute offers diploma, master of arts and licentiate in sacred theology degrees in sacramental theology and liturgy. Contact: Msgr. M. Francis Mannion, director, 847/837-4542.

- "Together in God's Service" (NEW): Marking a new stage in archdiocesan support of lay ecclesial ministry, this new program has enrolled 19 students aged 23-58 who are supported financially and through a formation process in their graduate theology work at Catholic Theological Union, and at Dominican, Loyola and St. Xavier Universities. Participants have praised the program for the way in which it links them to the archdiocese. Upon completion of the program, students will be commissioned to ministry by Cardinal George as professional pastoral associates or as directors of religious education. Seminary enjoying record enrollment

Reflecting on what appears to be a renewed interest in vocations, the University of St. Mary of the Lake/Mundelein Seminary is currently educating the largest student body enrolled in its Priestly Formation Program since 1969. There are 81 seminary students preparing to be ordained priests to serve the Archdiocese of Chicago.

This year, the nation's largest major Catholic seminary has welcomed 224 men from 20 states—and 14 countries—to begin or continue their priestly studies. The average age of Mundelein seminarians is 29.

In addition to those men preparing for eventual ordination to the priesthood, other academic units of the university are also experiencing strong enrollment:

The Post-Graduate Theology Program—which offers teaching and research degrees—has 38 students enrolled.

The Doctor of Ministry Program has 10 candidates enrolled.

The Diaconate Formation Program—which trains men for ordination as deacons and their wives for vocational lay ministry—currently includes 89 men and 76 women.

The Lay Ministry Formation Program has enrolled 75 students preparing for part-time volunteer ministry in the church and 21 in the new "Together in God's Service" graduate program preparing them for ministry as their vocation in life.

The Instituto de Liderazgo Pastoral prepares women and men for ministry in the Hispanic community as lay ministers, and men for ordination as deacons. This year 108 students are enrolled in the Instituto.

With an inaugural class of nine students, the Liturgical Institute is the newest academic unit of the seminary. Founded in 2000 by Cardinal George to promote the theology and practice of the church's liturgical life, the Institute offers diploma, master of arts and licentiate in sacred theology degrees in sacramental theology and liturgy.

In October 2001, the Liturgical Institute welcomed more than 200 pastors, architects, diocesan liturgical representatives, parish building committee members, craftspeople and liturgical furnishers to a conference it sponsored on Catholic liturgical architecture for the inauguration of the Church for 2010 Project.

Todos somos centinelas de los Dones de Cristo

Estimado Lector:

Adjunto encontrará el informe anual sobre las finanzas de la Arquidiócesis perteneciente al año que concluye Junio 2001. Este informe contiene explicaciones por parte de nuestro director de finanzas, el Señor Thomas Brennan, además de algunas cartas de nuestros Vicarios Episcopales con respecto a la condición del ministerio en varias áreas de la Arquidiócesis. Estoy sumamente orgulloso del trabajo que sostiene a nuestras parroquias, escuelas, y ministerios dentro de la Arquidiócesis. Este informe identifica los ingresos y gastos implicados en proporcionar estos servicios y ministerios.

Siempre existirá más trabajo por hacer, pero de cualquier manera. Así como lo indica el informe, los activos de la Arquidiócesis se han incrementado significa-tivamente, pero algunos déficits operativos aún permanecen inaceptablemente muy altos. Estamos trabajando para poder igualar los gastos más de cerca con respecto a los activos.

Quiero expresar mi agradecimiento a todos aquellos comprometidos en la administración de las finanzas de la Arquidiócesis. En particular, quisiera agradecer a nuestros pastores y sacerdotes y a sus administradores, así como a Tom Brennan y a los miembros de la Oficina de Finanzas de la Arquidiócesis; al Comité de Finanzas de la Arquidiócesis y demás consejeros y mis asesores, incluyendo al Colegio Arquidiocesano de Asesores y miembros de mi Consejo Administrativo. Les pido a todos, especialmente a nuestros líderes dentro de nuestras parroquias y escuelas, que se consideren

Cardenal Francis George O.M.I.
La Columna del Cardenal

Dones de Cristo", la bondad de nuestros bienhechores quienes han donado de una manera extraordinaria para los trabajos de esta Arquidiócesis incita mi gran agradecimiento.

Puede que tenga usted preguntas adicionales después de leer este informe. Nuestros empleados, personal y voluntarios tendrán el gusto de responder a cualquier pregunta acerca de los detalles de este cuadro financiero de nuestra Arquidiócesis. Que Dios los bendiga.

Sinceramente suyo en Cristo

Francis Cardinal George

Cardenal Francis George, O.M.I.
Arzobispo de Chicago.

El Ministerio Hispano y sus grandes logros en el 2001

En la memoria de la mayoría de las personas, el 11 de septiembre del 2001 definiría para siempre al año 2001. Fue también un año en el cual varios logros importantes se llevaron a cabo en el área del Ministerio Hispano dentro de la Arquidiócesis de Chicago. Si bien el mundo dejó de girar por un breve momento en septiembre, y ha comenzado a regresar a su estado original, el trabajo en el Ministerio Hispano en la Arquidiócesis de Chicago continúa debido a su tremendo ímpetu.

En mi calidad de Enlace Episcopal para los Asuntos Hispanos, es una satisfacción para mí compartir con ustedes algunos de los más importantes objetivos que se alcanzaron en este importante y siempre amplio ministerio en la Arquidiócesis de Chicago.

- En enero, Alejandro Castillo fue nombrado Director para la Oficina de Comunicaciones Hispanas. Los esfuerzos de esta oficina han creado lazos más sólidos con la prensa local hispana y ha creado y apoyado un programa radial en español semanal el cual cuenta con la participación del Padre Ezequiel Sánchez como anfitrión.

- En junio, María García fue nombrada Directora de la oficina de Planificación Familiar Natural, la Planificación Familiar Natural es un método científico que las parejas emplean para conseguir un lapso de tiempo entre cada bebé o evitar un embarazo, y está aprobado y de acuerdo a la enseñanza de la Iglesia Católica.

En julio, Carlos Salmeron se unió al equipo de trabajo de la oficina para la Justicia Racial para desarrollar los talleres parroquiales sobre Raza y Sensibilidad Étnica para que sean más inclusivos y donde se puedan relacionar todos los participantes, especialmente para aquellos cuyo idioma principal es el castellano.

- En octubre se anunció el nombramiento del Padre Ezequiel Sánchez como el nuevo Director de la recién creada Oficina para Hispanos Católicos - esta oficina fue ampliada para lograr que la actual estructura de la Arquidiócesis fuera más accesible a la creciente comunidad hispana y para señalar de una manera más efectiva sus asuntos. Uno de los componentes más convincentes de esta oficina es el del Ministerio para los Jóvenes, coordinado por Jorge Rivera.

- Durante todo el año Valentín Araya, Director Asociado de la Oficina de Ministerios Familiares y Roberto Rivas, director del ministerio "Camino y Esperanza", el cual se especializa en retiros para parejas combinaron sus esfuerzos para ofrecer más oportunidades para la formación espiritual de las parejas en la comunidad hispana.

- El Ministerio Hispano ha experimentado un continuo crecimiento en el número de parroquias que ofrecen Misa en castellano, actualmente se ofrecen en 128 parroquias, las cuales representan un tercio de todas las parroquias dentro de la Arquidiócesis de Chicago.

- Los organizadores del Banquete de Reconocimiento Noche de Gala del año pasado, el más grande y exitoso hasta la fecha, hicieron entrega de un premio por $10,000 dólares a la oficina de Liderazgo Pastoral para apoyar el Ministerio de Entrenamiento Laico.

El 25 de Noviembre diez nuevos Diáconos Permanentes Hispanos fueron ordenados en la Catedral del Santo Nombre por el Cardenal Francis George O.M.I. Con estos diez nuevos Diáconos la cifra total de Diáconos Permanentes Hispanos asciende a 144.

El Ministerio Hispano también celebró importantes aniversarios este año pasado, incluyendo los Quince Años de la Posada Arquidiocesana, celebrada en la Catedral del Santo Nombre, así como también el Aniversario del periódico Chicago Católico, celebrando quince años de publicación.

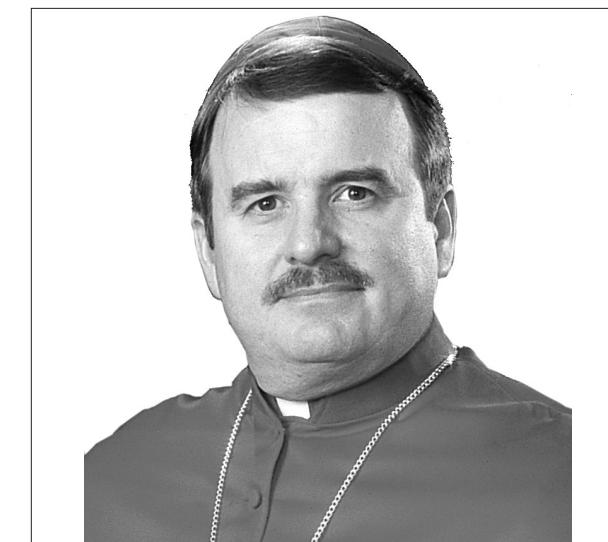

Nuestro sistema de Seminarios también ha experimentado logros significativos con respecto a la matriculación de hispanos. En el Seminario San José 19 de los 47 (40%) estudiantes actualmente matriculados son Hispanos. En el Seminario de Santa María del Lago en Mundelein, 20 de los 76 (26%) seminaristas que están estudiando para la Arquidiócesis de Chicago son Hispanos - 5 de ellos se esperan se ordenen en Mayo del 2002. 31 por ciento de los hombres que serán ordenados al sacerdocio en Mayo 2002 comenzaron en Casa Jesús — un programa de un año que consta de idioma y formación para candidatos hispanos que estén considerando tomar el sacerdocio.

Mirando hacia el futuro... en Marzo del 2002, María Sedano oficialmente tomará posesión de su cargo como Directora de la Oficina de Catequesis, esperamos contar con su liderazgo en este tan importante ministerio.

Naturalmente, estos son solamente algunos de los numerosos ejemplos de crecimiento en el área del Ministerio Hispano que se dieron dentro de la Arquidiócesis de Chicago en 2001. Es muy importante observar que estas recientes ganancias no se desarrollaron de la noche a la mañana, por el contrario, son el resultado de décadas de arduo trabajo y la perseverancia de innumerables individuos. Uno de ellos en particular que me gustaría mencionar es nuestro propio Arzobispo, el Cardenal Francis George, por su fuerte e inquebrantable apoyo y estímulo en las áreas del Ministerio Hispano.

Aunque se han desarrollado algunos logros notables en ciertas áreas, nuestras parroquias y escuelas continúan luchando a causa de los cambios demográficos, en medio de algunos de los factores que contribuyeron a que las inscripciones se redujeran y en conjunto la participación parroquial. La Arquidiócesis de Chicago, sin embargo, continua proporcionando asistencia financiera más allá de las contribuciones generosas realizadas por feligreses locales a varias de nuestras parroquias y escuelas en nuestros vecindarios hispanos.

Durante el año 2000 -2001, la Arquidiócesis de Chicago gastó cerca de $19 millones en formas de subvenciones principales destinados a proyectos tales como reposiciones interiores y exteriores y retoques a las parroquias y estructuras escolares localizadas en áreas donde se sirve a la comunidad hispana. Esto incluye 6.8 millones de dólares dedicados para el Vicariato III (el que incluye las comunidades de Pilsen y la Villita) en un período de 2 años. Reflejando el tremendo crecimiento en la parte norte de nuestra Arquidiócesis, cerca de 3.5 millones de dólares se gastaron en el Vicariato I (un área que comprende todo el Condado de Lake y la porción norte del Condado de Cook) principalmente para la construcción de escuelas nuevas y renovaciones a parroquias en 2001. Subsidios operativos, el cual incluye beneficios de jubilación y beneficios de salud para los empleados sumaron un total ligeramente por arriba de los 4.5 millones de dólares en 2001, con el Vicariato III recibiendo casi 3.5 millones de dólares, o un 77%, del total de los subsidios de operación otorgados a las parroquias con presencia hispana *.

La iglesia siempre ha dependido de las generosas contribuciones de sus feligreses para el apoyo de sus iglesias y escuelas. Me gustaría tomar esta oportunidad para animarlo a usted para que se envuelva más en la vida de su parroquia y escuela local. Me gustaría especialmente estimular a los profesionales hispanos para que consideren compartir sus dones con sus parroquias y comunidades locales como discípulos de Cristo. La Iglesia tiene necesidad de su tiempo, talento y bienes. Como miembros del cuerpo de Cristo, debemos usar todo lo que poseemos para traer la Buena Nueva de Jesucristo a un mundo que desesperadamente lo necesita.

Existen varios obstáculos que nosotros como Iglesia debemos continuar venciendo en los meses o años venideros. Las decisiones que tomemos hoy afectaran grandemente la dirección de nuestro ministerio y la manera en que transformamos nuestra sociedad. Vivimos actualmente en un mundo cada vez más globalizado donde las fronteras cada vez más y más van desapareciendo, sin embargo la gente aun se mantiene separada. Cualquiera que sea el resultado, es importante conocer que nuestros esfuerzos en predicar el Evangelio y celebrar los Sacramentos que Cristo nos ha dado, serán, con la gracia de Dios, una fuerza poderosa que, efectivamente, transformará nuestro mundo.

Gracias y que Dios los bendiga.

Reverendo John Manz

Informe Fiscal para el año 2001

Por: Thomas Brennan

El informe financiero para el año fiscal 2001 (Julio 1, 2000 - Junio 30, 2001) contiene bastantes cifras y una extensa y completa información sobre la condición financiera de las parroquias y el Centro Pastoral de la Arquidiócesis de Chicago. Aunque este informe pretende o intenta describir algunos aspectos importantes de nuestra vida parroquial, pero debido a su naturaleza está limitado en su capacidad para describir el estado de la iglesia en Chicago. Nuestra Iglesia existe para "anunciar, ofrecer testimonio, hacerse presente, y diseminar el misterio de la comunión de la Sagrada Trinidad" (Catecismo de la Iglesia Católica, No. 738).

Como tal, nuestro informe solamente señala superficialmente los incontables millones de modelos con los que la gente ha participado en la vida de la iglesia este pasado año y los métodos que la iglesia ha escogido para ayudar a transformar vidas.

Quiero comenzar este informe reconociendo mediante un cordial agradecimiento toda la generosidad y el compromiso que han demostrado nuestros empleados, feligreses y otras personas para hacer posible el trabajo de nuestra iglesia local. Como centinelas de Jesucristo, estamos contantemente desafiados a devolver a Dios, mediante nuestra generosidad hacia otros, todas las bendiciones y favores que recibimos. El informe financiero abarca la manera en que respondemos en parte a la administración del tesoro. Debemos también recordar en que manera nuestra Iglesia se enriquece varias veces y de sobra debido en su mayoría a la gran respuesta de la gente dando de sí mismos mediante la administración de su tiempo y talento.

Construyendo nuestro futuro en un mundo cambiante

Nuestra iglesia local está trabajando arduamente para cumplir el reto de servir a una población cada vez más diversa y móvil. El censo de los Estados Unidos para el año 2000 documenta varios cambios demográficos que generan retos para nuestras iglesias y agencias. Con el crecimiento en años recientes de una basta feligresía inmigrante, un número mayor de nuestras parroquias sirve a grupos multiétnicos y multilingües. Con los cambios en la población, algunas de nuestras parroquias han tenido que adaptarse y ampliar sus programas y facilidades de espacio. Al mismo tiempo otras parroquias están experimentando una disminución en el número de feligreses a los cuales sirve. Con cambios en los requisitos educativos, nuestras escuelas están llamadas a invertir más en tecnología y otros programas para enriquecer los planes de estudio. Con los diversos cambios en los estilos de vida de la gente y las exigencias del lugar de trabajo, estamos llamados a servir a nuestro pueblo utilizando métodos innovadores y comunicarnos con ellos usando medios múltiples. Con una alarmante y creciente dispersión de los ingresos familiares, podemos ver un aumento inapropiado entre donde se encuentran los recursos y donde existe la necesidad. Todos estos cambios nos obligan a responder con apertura y buena voluntad a las necesidades de terceros para adaptarse a las cambiantes circunstancias y de esta manera construir una sólida y vibrante iglesia.

Para poder prestar atención y ocuparse de estos retos, la Arquidiócesis de Chicago ha lanzado una campaña sin precedentes, "Compartiendo los Dones de Cristo" como un sistema para movilizar a las personas y sus recursos. Esta campaña nos invita a abrazar una vida de corresponsabilidad. Nos pide que reflexionemos sobre lo que hemos entregando y de que manera gastar lo que tenemos, nuestro tiempo, talento y tesoro. Al invitar a todos los católicos a practicar una corresponsabilidad, nosotros esperamos promover el ánimo en nuestras parroquias.

Los resultados financieros para el año fiscal 2001 están en gran parte determinados por el éxito anticipado de esta campaña. Mostramos un firme incremento en los activos netos de las parroquias y del Centro Pastoral. Los activos netos de nuestras 378 parroquias creció por arriba de los $76 millones o un 10.7 por ciento de $713.5 millones a $789.8 millones. Al mismo tiempo los fondos netos del Centro Pastoral crecieron en un poco más de $4 millones o un 2.6 por ciento, de $169.8 millones a 174.3 millones. Las parroquias vieron sus resultados proyectarse a $42.6 millones, 16.9 por ciento de incremento en las contribuciones, con el volumen de este incremento atribuido a la Campaña de "Compartiendo los Dones de Cristo". A medida que usted vaya examinando los resultados de las parroquias y del Centro Pastoral podrá observar que seguimos incurriendo en operaciones con déficit, pero la fortaleza de la campaña "Compartiendo los Dones de Cristo" nos ha llevado a obtener un total superávit y nos ha habilitado para comenzar a enfrentar algunos de los grandes costos de infraestructura relacionados con varias de nuestras parroquias, escuelas, rectorías, conventos, salones y otras facilidades.

Resultados Parroquiales

Los activos netos de las parroquias aumentaron de $76.3 millones a $789.8 millones. Las contribuciones incrementaron de $42.6 millones o un 16.9 por ciento con una contribución básica incrementando un 77 por ciento o $34.6 millones a $79.8 millones. Contribuciones de Operación (Domingos, días festivos, legados y otras actividades para reunir fondos) incrementaron un 3.8 por ciento a $214.9 millones. Este crecimiento es realmente alentador especialmente a la luz de la lenta economía y recepción que estamos experimentando. Aunque los ingresos de las parroquias, en particular las contribuciones principales, incrementaron rápidamente, también experimentamos un gran incremento en los gastos de operación parroquiales. Elevados gastos en el personal de las parroquias (+$5.3 millones), reparaciones a la propiedad (+$11.9 millones) utilidades (+$9.9 millones) y subvenciones a escuelas (+$3.5 millones) llevaron a un incremento de $9 millones en el déficit de operaciones parroquiales hasta un nivel de $23.3 millones de un déficit de 14.3 millones en el año fiscal 2000.

Otros desarrollos parroquiales incluyen:

➤ Los activos parroquiales alcanzaron los $928 millones en 2001. De estos, más del 70 por ciento o $665 millones representan el valor de terrenos, edificios y equipo. Ya que los edificios de las parroquias alojan también las actividades de la misma nos damos cuenta que estos edificios representan un enorme compromiso a lo largo del año para operarlos y mantenerlos.

➤ El éxito de la campaña "Compartiendo los Dones de Cristo", permitió que las parroquias gastaran $79.1 millones en el año fiscal 2001 en adiciones básicas y reparaciones mayores a sus facilidades (techos, pintura, nuevas calderas). Durante los últimos cinco años, las parroquias han invertido un poco más de $300 millones en mejoras fundamentales y adiciones. Esto es un estupendo testimonio para el compromiso y generosidad de los feligreses para el futuro de sus parroquias.

➤ A partir del 30 de Junio, 2001, las parroquias contaban con $36.5 millones en inversiones a largo plazo (arriba de los $30.6 millones en Junio de 2000) dentro del fondo de inversiones arquidiocesano. Estas inversiones representan un fondo de dotes creado por 32 parroquias y 68 escuelas.

➤ Las escuelas contaron con un ingreso de $239.8 millones y gastos por $289.4 millones durante el año fiscal 2001, estas cifras dieron como resultado la necesidad de una subvención de $49.6 millones. Esta subvención creció en comparación con los $46.1 millones durante el año fiscal 2000. Esta creciente subvención apunta uno de los mayores retos que la Arquidiócesis debe de enfrentar. A saber, de que manera podemos mantener nuestras escuelas en general disponibles para los niños de la Arquidiócesis cuando los costos para pagar el personal profesional, proveer un rico plan de estudios y mantener facilidades adecuadas continua incrementando a más del doble del ritmo de la inflación.

A largo plazo, creemos firmemente que la política pública necesita cambiar para reconocer y reservar el derecho a los padres para escoger enviar a sus hijos a una escuela parroquial. Todas las escuelas educan a miembros del público, sin embargo solamente los niños que asisten a escuelas que son propiedad del gobierno reciben fondos públicos significativos. Apoyamos fuertemente cambios (aumentar los créditos sobre impuestos y vales) lo que le permitiría a la escuela tener fondos para responder al estudiante basado en la decisión de los padres, en vez que estar limitado a apoyar el sistema secular administrado por el gobierno. Ahora, mas que nunca es aparente que una fuerte enseñanza moral es parte esencial de un programa educativo exitoso. De la misma manera que los programas gubernamentales canalizan ingresos sobre impuestos para el cuidado de la salud, cuidado de niños, Seguro Social, y otras áreas de programas sin tener en cuenta la afiliación religiosa de la persona o ya sea que una persona decida gastar sus fondos, de esta manera recibidos en una institución religiosa afiliada, creemos que los sistemas de fondos para la educación primaria y secundaria deberían de liberarlos.

➤ La mayoría de las parroquias enfrentan desafiantes situaciones financieras. Durante el año fiscal 2001, tres de diez parroquias dirigieron operaciones con superávit o cubrieron sus gastos, el otro 70 por ciento de las parroquias operaron con déficit (gastaron algo de ahorros) o necesitaron apoyo financiero de parte del Centro Pastoral para seguir operando.

➤ Las parroquias recibieron $22.2 millones en subsidios directos de parte del Centro Pastoral. Adicionalmente, las parroquias no pudieron pagar $4.7 millones al Centro Pastoral por concepto de valoraciones por cosas como seguro para la propiedad y beneficios para los empleados. Como resultado, el Centro Pastoral asumió estas obligaciones de las parroquias por un total de $26.8 millones en subsidios de apoyo parroquial. Los subsidios a las parroquias representan un arma de doble filo. En una mano, los subsidios representan un tremendo testimonio del compromiso de la Arquidiócesis para mantener una amplia presencia parroquial. En la otra mano, el actual nivel de subsidios no es financieramente sostenible y va a necesitar rebajas en el ámbito de nuestras operaciones. Desde 1970 la Arquidiócesis de Chicago ha proporcionado más de $372 millones en subvenciones parroquiales.

Resultados del Centro Pastoral

Los activos netos del Centro Pastoral aumentaron de $4.5 millones a $174.3 millones. El Centro Pastoral incluye la oficina del Arzobispo y varias de aquellas que trabajan para proveer servicio y apoyo a lo largo y ancho de la Arquidiócesis, incluyendo los seminarios y varios departamentos y agencias catalogadas en el cuadro que acompaña este informe financiero. El Centro Pastoral también provee apoyo económico en forma de becas a las parroquias y escuelas que sufren la falta de recursos locales.

Durante el año fiscal 2001, el déficit de operación del Centro Pastoral aumentó a $15.1 millones de un déficit en el año fiscal 2000 de $10.2 millones.

La principal razón por el incremento del déficit operativo fue un aumento de gastos

relacionados a las iglesias por el Centro Pastoral. Los subsidios que se concedieron de los ingresos de operación del Centro Pastoral totalizaron $21.5 millones en el año fiscal 2001, un incremento de $2.4 millones en comparación con el año fiscal 2000. (Nota: algunos subsidios parroquiales adicionales provienen de fuentes no relacionadas a los ingresos de operaciones.)

La cantidad que se gastó en subsidios parroquiales representa más que el déficit operativo completo del Centro Pastoral. Otros aspectos claves en el desempeño financiero del Centro Pastoral incluye:

➤ El fondo de seguro que la Arquidiócesis administra para sus parroquias y agencias vio los resultados deteriorarse en el año fiscal 2001. El fondo de gastos creció más rápido que el de ingresos debido a un incremento en reclamos de propiedad (muchos relacionados a daños por tormentas de invierno) y claramente un incremento en el costo del seguro médico para los empleados. Los gastos por seguros se incrementaron en $4.7 millones más que el programa de ingresos por seguro.

➤ Las contribuciones y legados crecieron de $2.8 millones a un total de $10.1 millones.

El Centro Pastoral sostuvo $58.3 millones en inversiones generales a partir de Junio 30, 2001. (comparado con $58.8 millones en el año anterior). El ingreso de estas inversiones representa una gran fuente de apoyo para los programas del Centro Pastoral. El Centro Pastoral fue capaz de mantener su nivel de inversiones a pesar de su déficit operativo debido esto a devoluciones por inversiones positivas y los beneficios de la venta de una inmensa propiedad desmejorada fuera del Condado de Cook.

➤ El incremento total de los activos netos del Centro Pastoral se debe en gran parte a los $9.9 millones en ganancia neta sobre la venta de propiedades y $16.6 millones en ingresos en el fondo de desarrollo. A medida que las parroquias participen en la campaña arquidiocesana "Compartiendo los Dones de Cristo", se necesitará que compartan un 20 por ciento de ingresos anuales con el resto de la Arquidiócesis. Este dinero esta siendo recaudado por el Centro Pastoral en el fondo de desarrollo y será empleado para tales proyectos como la construcción de una casa de jubilación para sacerdotes arquidiocesanos (inaugurada el pasado Mayo 2001) reparaciones generales en el Seminario Mundelein, gastos de la campaña y varias necesidades de las parroquias más pobres.

➤ El gasto neto del Centro Pastoral para las agencias que proveen servicios ministeriales y parroquiales declinaron un 1.7 por ciento de $26.8 millones.

En conjunto el Centro Pastoral continuará su trabajo con las parroquias y escuelas de la Arquidiócesis para traer ingresos y gastos de operación a un balance más cercano. Durante este esfuerzo continuaremos enfocándonos mejor para poder identificar fuentes de ingresos sostenibles así también como encontrar maneras de cortar gastos. Mientras tanto, les agradecemos su apoyo y su promesa para continuar trabajando para servir a la comunidad de la Arquidiócesis de Chicago.
